

The Suspects

Amelie Le Fille

One of Tir Dans Le Noir's most talented and renowned cabaret dancers, Amelie has established her own fan base, consisting of some of the world's most rich and famous. Amelie has been dancing at Tir Dans Le Noir for three years, and now headlines the famous cabaret.

Colette Klaxon

Colette is a singer at Tir Dans Le Noir, and takes the stage immediately following Amelie Le Fille. As such, by the time her performance begins most of the patrons have already left or are too inebriated to enjoy her performance. Colette is determined though, and vows to remain with Tir Dans Le Noir until she becomes the headlining act.

Lisle Laideur

Lisle is an international superstar, and is only in Paris for a few nights as part of her tour. She loves the country and has enjoyed spending most of her days taking in the stores and her evenings experiencing the local night life. Lisle was looking forward to her visit to Tir Dans Le Noir most of all, and has been talking about visiting the world-famous club for months.

Etienne Naufrage

Etienne is the club manager, and has been for a number of years. He is in charge of lining up acts for the club, and responsible for deciding which acts headline. Etienne also heads up the job of inviting high-profile people to the club, and making their visit the most incredible night of their lives.

Fabrice Limage

Fabrice owns Tir Dans Le Noir, and takes a lot of pride in the club, even though he isn't the original founder. He was willed the club by the previous owner, a wily playboy who made the club into the phenomenon it is today. Fabrice is a reasonable boss, but tends to be very no-nonsense and doesn't put up with a lot of drama from the performers in the club.

Maurice Miellat

Maurice has the responsibility of touring Lisle Laideur around during her stay in Paris. Hired by her promotional manager, Maurice is to attend to her every whim and show her the time of her life. He is a bit secretive and tends to keep relatively quiet – that is until he gets a few cognacs into him, at which point his tongue loosens up.
