

Character Descriptions Teachers From Another Planet

The Students

Hazel Horton

Hazel is an adventurous and clever girl. She has the highest marks in the school, but would rather experience something firsthand than read it from a book. She is good friends with Kallie Klause, and both girls were best friends with Florence Bloom. She loves delicate shoes and pretty shirts, but would never be caught dead in pink.

Kallie Klaus

Kallie is best friends with Hazel Horton and Florence Bloom, who has been sent off to Afina's School for the Mentally Unhinged. Kallie has a hyper-active imagination, and it was her idea in the first place that the teachers might be aliens. Although no one believed her then, Flo's disappearance has convinced everyone that something odd is going on, and she's now leading the investigation to discover the truth of what's happening at Rush Summit Junior High.

Leila Lambert

Leila is idealistic, and loves to think the best of everyone and the world. Despite the possible threat of aliens taking over the school, she chooses to believe their teachers are good souls, and even if they are aliens, they are the kind that want friendship and peace. She would never be caught in anything but a simple dress or a flowing skirt, and carries a notebook with her at all times to catch any poetic musings that might float her way. She is a rather new addition to the school, and just moved here with her parents a few months ago.

Samara Stein

Samara is hilarious and sarcastic, and loves to crack jokes. The thought of aliens taking over the school has given her all new material, and she can't go a minute without making fun. She loves to mix and wear wild colours and pulls them off in style.

Kenny Burdette

Kenny is a laid back, go-with-the-flow kind of guy. When Hazel and Kallie were rounding up the Rush Summit Collegiate Detectives, Kenny was just happy to get out of the heat into a well air-conditioned area. His blood pressure very rarely rises, and although he's as worried about Florence as anyone else, you would never guess it by looking at him.

Xenon Freese

Xenon is philosophical, and loves to quote books and philosophical thinkers. In fact, quite often the others stop everything they're doing to look at him after he's quoted some random genius long dead. He never leaves home without his pebble in his pocket, which he claims amongst this ever-changing society, with technology taking over every aspect of life, the rock reminds him that we are all just a small pebble in the large entity we call earth.

Chase Burbank

Chase is easy to please, and does not often stand up for himself. Joining the Rush Summit Collegiate Detectives, however, seems to have brought a part of him out that no one, not even Chase, knew he had in him, and he is desperate to prove himself to the rest of the group and rescue Flo!

Hurley Hawks

Hurley is goofy, and loves to entertain. In fact, he is at his best, by far, when he has an audience to entertain. Hurley has a trademark dance he does randomly, for no particular reason it seems sometimes, a sort of a jig crossed with the Running Man. He performs it often, and no matter the tension, it always leaves the other detectives in stitches.

The Teachers

Ms. Appa Loosa

Miss Loosa is Rush Summit's music teacher. She is sweet and kind, unless one of her students falls out of tempo, in which case she becomes one of the scariest teachers imaginable. Miss Loosa believes that the study of music will complete a child's soul and help them communicate better throughout life. She came to the school to replace the existing teachers during the recent education cutbacks, and claims she is just getting started.

Mr. Bart Flummerfelt

Mr. Flummerfelt is the science teacher at Rush Summit Collegiate. He likes discipline and order in his classes, and speaks with an accent, although it's hard to determine if it's English, Scottish or Russian - or a bit of all three.

Mr. Flummerfelt is a strange dresser, and seems to have no colour coordination to his wardrobe. He often comes to class with his pants on backwards.

Miss Pepper Nickies

Miss Nickies is perhaps one of the oddest teachers at Rush Summit Collegiate. She teaches drama, but seems to enjoy making the sound effects for the scenes more than actually teaching any dramatic skill in her classes. The students love taking Miss Nickies' class, because they never know what she'll do next, and they never leave class without a hilarious story to tell their friends about what Miss Nickies did today. She wears big aviator glasses. Her hair is always frizzy and sticks out all over the place.

Mr. Levi Tuttle

Mr. Tuttle is Rush Summit Collegiate's English teacher, and has been for almost two decades. The highlight of his job, he says, is inspiring young minds with the greatest literature of all time. Mr. Tuttle wears loafers, brown slacks and a plaid shirt. Each morning when he enters the classroom he removes his jacket and hangs it on the coat rack behind his desk, swapping it for a ratty old cardigan that he has worn every day since he started teaching. The students claim that in all his years of teaching, he has never once washed the cardy.

Principal Spackers

Principal Spackers has been Rush Summit Collegiate's principal for five years, and is a tough man. In fact, there are rumours around the school that kids who are sent to the principal's office are never seen again, although no one can actually think of anyone who has disappeared after visiting being sent to Principal Spackers' office. He wears tight ties and cleanly-pressed suits, and his brown dress shoes click on the linoleum to announce his arrival wherever he goes.

Mr. Rat Furman

Mr. Furman teaches physical education at Rush Summit Collegiate, and has since the cutbacks brought the new teachers to the school. He doesn't say much, and often just points at the students and blows his whistle over and over to get the attention of the class. When not teaching gym, he spends his time in the school gymnasium bouncing on the rebounder, and always has a package of Skittles on him, which he munches on all day.